

Marketing Your Background Check Services

Partner with Staffing Agencies & Recruiters

Staffing firms constantly need fast screenings for new hires. Introduce your services, offer volume pricing, and position yourself as a reliable alternative to large national providers.

Network with Landlords & Property Managers

Tenant screening is a major opportunity. Connect with apartment complexes, real estate investors, and property management companies who regularly need criminal and eviction checks.

Build Relationships with Local Businesses

Target industries that require trust and safety such as childcare centers, home health agencies, transportation companies, security firms, and cleaning services. Visit in person with flyers or capability statements.

Optimize Your Online Presence

Create a professional website and Google Business Profile so employers searching “background checks near me” can find you. Encourage satisfied clients to leave reviews to build credibility.

Leverage Professional Networking Platforms

Use LinkedIn to connect with HR managers, business owners, nonprofit leaders, and school administrators. Share educational posts about hiring compliance and risk reduction.

Bundle Services for Higher Value

Offer background checks alongside fingerprinting, drug testing, notary services, or I-9 verification. Many organizations prefer a one-stop provider, which increases your revenue per client and retention.
